7. Emily Jane Thomas, daughter of Hugh Thomas and Elizabeth Coon, was born on 26 Jan 1836 in Jefferson Township, Ross County, Ohio. She died on 16 Jan 1888 in Jefferson Township, Ross County, Ohio.

Notes for Amiziah Hugh Reed:

It's not entirely clear who Amiziah's parents were. The oral family history passed down through his granddaughter Susan Francis Hess indicates that Amiziah's father was John Reed and his mother was Ann Kelsor. However, "Our Scotch-Irish Reeds, Scotland-Ireland-America" written by Mary Frances Reed & Charles Milton Reed & Gerald Reed, compiled by Ruth Winters Odell, and typed and photocopied by Cathy Odell McGrath suggests that Acklin Reed and Sarah Kelsey were most likely Amiziah's parents.

Hypothetically, at least, there could be a degree of truth in both versions. Acklin and John Reed were brothers and they owned adjacent farms in Jackson County, Ohio, at the time of Acklin's death in 1836, when Amiziah was two years old and just short of his third birthday. It's conceivable that Sarah Kelsey and children, including Amiziah, stayed with John Reed after Acklin's death, and perhaps even, that Sarah Kelsey and Ann Kelsor are really references to the same person; and, that Sarah Ann Kelsey remarried to John Reed at a later date. This would make Acklin Reed the father of Amiziah, and John Reed his uncle and stepfather. This however is pure speculation based solely on a circumstantial interpretation of an oral family history passed down through several generations. But it may also explain the apparent uncertainty of Amiziah's parentage expressed in the "Our Scotch-Irish Reeds, Scotland-Ireland-America".

After Amiziah's wife Emily Jane died at the beginning of 1888, he traveled to the West. First he settled in Nebraska and then to Cheyenne, Wyoming, where he was on a Civil War pension until his death in Wyoming in 1913.

A Civil War Declaration for Pension for Amiziah Reed, dated April 11, 1907, states that Amiziah Reed was enrolled at Chillicothe, Ohio, on October 11, 1861 as a private in Co. B, 63rd Reg. Ohio Infantry. It further states that Amiziah Reed was honorably discharged at Prospect, Tennessee, on December 31, 1863, and that he re-enlisted as a private in Co. B, 63rd Reg, Ohio Vet. Infantry from December 25th, 1863 to July 8th, 1865, when he was discharged in Louisville, Kentucky. This same document cites Amiziah's birthplace as Jackson County, Ohio.

The declaration also states that Amiziah was 6 feet 5 inches tall, had a light complexion, blue eyes and dark hair. It says he lived in Ohio until 1887, then spent three years in Nebraska from 1887 to 1890 and the remainder of his life in Wyoming. The death of his wife suggests the year he moved West was actually 1888.

The following comes from Lusetta Jayne Hess: Amiziah Reed was a Civil War Veteran. He served in the Union Army from Oct. 11, 1861 and mustered out at Louisville, Kentucky, on July 8th, 1865. He served in the Ohio Enlisted B Company, 63rd Inf Reg Ohio.

Amiziah became ill on August 25, 1913. His youngest daughter Margaret cared for him in his illness. Amiziah died at St. Luke's Hospital in Denver, Colorado, where he died from complications resulting from gangrene.

Albert Earl Reed, one of Amiziah's grandchildren wrote the following in a letter to his cousin Mary F. Reed (March 19, 1956): "Dear Cousin Mary, Your letter of March 8th with the genealogy history and questions. I am fairly sure that my Grandfather Amiziah Reed served many years in Civil War with a company that was organized in Chillicothe, Ohio. He spoke of a Downey Reed as his great grandfather and the story he told to me and my brothers and sisters often was that he was born in County Down Ireland and lived there-although his father was Scotch. Grandfather Amiziah never gave much to being Irish. My impression of what he said then was that Downey was born in County Down, Ireland of Scotch father and mother. They were emigrants from Scotland as political refugees. They were kindly received in County Down and they were constrained to name their newley born son 'Downey' in gratitude for their kindly reception in a strange land. Grandfather said, 'Downey and his brothers three whose names I do not know, began to grow up, they conceived the idea of coming to America and having accumulated some household goods and paid passage on a boat for their goods and them selves, they did not have money enough for Downey's fare, he being the youngest. He was placed in a barrel and the barrel headed up and loaded with the other household goods. Once they were at sea he was let out of the barrel and continued the journey as a regular passenger. Luckily being overlooked by the super cargo or pursers who evidently was pretty poor at his counting of passengers.' I am sure this must be a true story as Grandfather took great delight in telling it and repeating it many times. Orpha and Earl Reed."

The following four paragraphs come from "Our Scotch-Irish Reeds, Scotland-Ireland-America":

"During the visit of Amiziah Reed who lived out west in 1897 or 98, the idea of a western trip was uppermost in Baker's mind.

"Amaziah Reed came to visit the folks on Sand Run. He told stories of the petrified forest and of the famous hot and cold springs in Yellowstone River. About the tall, tall trees on the mountains out west.

" 'The fireplace was open then and we were all sitting around on the floor listening to Uncle Amaziah tell stories,' Mary Reed tells us. 'He told of finding a petrified frog and the tree limbs turned to stone. Uncle Amaziah was a guide to people who wished to see this unusual forest. The people came to Colorado and Montana, then through the Yellowstone. They slept in covered wagons and made campfires for the cooking. It wasn't a park then, just beautiful and unusual places with geysers that were a regular event. At one place they could fish in the Yellowstone, and when one was caught and yet on the line, all they had to do was drop it into a pool of hot water. They then got their tin plate, and Amaziah would lay the fish on the plate and by giving it a slight jerk, the bones came away. All one had to do was enjoy the good, fresh-cooked fish. This type of cooking fish at the hot spring had to be discontinued after so many people began to go to the Yellowstone in later years.'

"Now there were other stories Amaziah told. He knew Buffalo Bill Cody. They had hunted together and thought a lot of each other." Interestingly though, none of the stories told by Amiziah make any reference to Gen. Custer and Custer's Last Stand in 1876.

The same "Our Scotch-Irish Reeds" cites an account of "Custer's Last Stand" from the "Historical Collection of Ohio" by Howe in Harrison County, Volume I, in which page 90 refers to the life of General Custer. At the massacre, it notes that Custer was killed as were his two brothers, Thomas and Bostan--both officers. According to this account, a Captain Calhoun, his brother-in-law, and a civilian Mr. Reed, who was their guide, had taken a few to observe the Indians in a nearby valley, and consequently they were not present at the massacre. "Our Scotch-Irish Reeds" asserts that this civilian guide was our Amiziah Reed.

From the "Historical Collection of Ohio", page 900, it states "At the time of the massacre, with Custer was killed his two brothers, Thomas and Bostan; bothe officers. Captain Calhoun, his brother-in-law and a Mr. Reed, a civilian who was on a visit to the General, also Louis Clem, a young brother of Johnnie Clem, the drummer boy of Shiloh."

If this was in fact our Amiziah, it means he left his young family in Ohio during the summer months and traveled to the West at least once during the 1870s, a period in which his wife was bearing children about every two years. Amiziah certainly did yearn for the West. Immediately after his wife's death, he packed up with several of his children and moved first to Nebraska and then on to Wyoming.

Amiziah is listed in the 1900 census for Cheyenne, Wyoming, as "Amosil" and is living with his son Amaziah, who is listed as A. H. Reed.

Notes for Downey Reed:

Albert Earl Reed, one of Downey Reed's great-great grandchildren wrote the following in a letter to his cousin Mary F. Reed (March 19, 1956). It was recorded in "Our Scotch-Irish Reeds, Scotland-Ireland-America" written by Mary Frances Reed & Charles Milton Reed & Gerald Reed, compiled by Ruth Winters Odell, and typed and photocopied by Cathy Odell McGrath, the letter tells the story of Downey Reed's trip to America as told by Albert's grandfather Amiziah Reed:

Grandfather Amiziah "spoke of a Downey Reed as his great grandfather and the story he told to me and my brothers and sisters often was that he was born in County Down Ireland and lived there -- although his father was Scotch. Grandfather Amaziah never gave much to being Irish. My impression of what he said then was that Downey was born in County Down, Ireland of Scotch father and mother. They were emigrants from Scotland as political refugees. They were kindly received in County Down and they were constrained to name their newley born son 'Downey' in gratitude for their kindly reception in a strange land. Grandfather said, 'Downey and his brothers three whose names I do not know, began to grow up, they conceived the idea of coming to America and having accumulated som household goods and paid passage on a boat for their goods and themselves, they did not have money enough for Downey's fare, he being the youngest. He was placed in a barrel and the barrel headed up and loaded with the other household goods. Once they were at sea he was let out of the barrel and continued the journey as a regular passenger. Luckily being overlooked by the super cargo or purser, who evidently was pretty poor at his counting of passengers.' I am sure this must be a true story as Grandfather took great delight in telling it and repeating it many times. Your cousins Earl and Orpha Reed."

Notes for James Thomas:

This qualifying statement was made by Barbara Ludwick on the LDS Family Search family tree showing the relationships of James Thomas.

"This information was derived from the Internet through E-Mail from ShawnThomas' Genealogy and Notes, who is a descendant of Winston Thomas. James Thomas and Chloe Halley are possibly the parents of George Thomas. Their marriage date and location is consistent with that of George's birth. In addition, George named two of his children, James and Chloe.

"This information was derived from papers titled "Events Related To One or More Of James Thomas, Prince William and Bedford Counties, Virginia, that was sent to Barbara G. (Buck) Sanders, Ludwick from Raymond Parker on October 1999. His source was provided by Alice Matthews and comments by Charles Thomas.

"The index to Bedford County Court Orders shows that there was a James Thomas (orphan of John Thomas) in Bedford as early as Order Book 1b(1754-17610). In December 16, 1776, James Thomas of Prince William County, Virginia, deeded to James Maddox of Charles County, Maryland, 120 acres, known as St. Georges, which was derived by the grantor's grandfather, George Thomas, Sr., to his son George Thomas, Jr., (The Halley family --see 1779 entry below--lived in Prince William County before moving to Bedford County. In 1777, James' deed for 300 acres on East side of Oak Mountain Branch, Bedford County; in June 25, 1779, marriage bonds for James Thomas, and Chloe Holly, Bedford County. (From Earle Dennis book. Ann Mack had a different date); in 1785 James' deed for 200 acres on north branch of Otter River, Bedford County; in 1880, James not found on census in Bedford County, but there is one Thomas for whom no first name is given in January 1814, Court--Micajah Davis appointed administrator of estate of James Thomas, deceased. Also an inventory and appraisal of the estate of James Thomas, Bedford County, books, farm, tools, 11 shoelasts; in 1818, James Thomas, etc., to William R. Porter, Tr., DT--personal property, Bedford County; in 1820, two James' on census for Bedford County. (Not possible to read ages correctly from the microfilm.) Chloe appears on census, showing 1 male under 10, 1 female 16-26, and 1 female 45 and over could be Chloe?); in 1861, in Bedford Land Tax Book, James Thomas is listed as having 350 acres on No Business Mountain. There is 0.00 under "The amount of tax," and a note saying "off to M. Davis long time ago." This is the son of Joshua Thomas; in 1862, James Thomas' possible grandson (George's son, Eldridge) gave his occupation as "shoemaker" when he married in Bedford County. (See 1814 above) This information was derived from the Internet on web site "FamilyTreeMaker" Home Page: <http://www.genealogy.com/genealogy/users/m/o/n/Tamra--W-Monroe/GENE3-0009.html>. This last source that I have listed states that George Thomas is a brother to James Thomas, instead of George being his son. Confusing! However, I Barbara Ludwick, believe that there were two George Thomas and one was his brother, the other was his son. Other possible father and siblings of James who were married about the same time in Bedford county, Includes: William Thomas born about 1740, possible father of: Isaac Thomas born about 1765; married Mary Dewitt on May 08 or 13, 1787 in Bedford, County, Virginia. Marriage Notes for Isaac Thomas and Mary Dewitt; John Hill was surety. Consent given by John Ross Dewitt, the father of Mary. Elizabeth Thomas born about 1768; married Henry Rusher on January 23, 1786 in Bedford County, Virginia. Archibald Thomas born about 1770 in presumably in Scotland; died in Arnold Valley, Rockbridge County, Virginia; married Mary Hill on April 13, 1791/72 in Bedford County, Virginia. John Thomas born about 1772; married Quintilly Pullen on February 04, 1793 in Bedford County, Virginia. Joshua Thomas born about 1774; married Betsy Erwin on September 01, 1795 in Bedford County, Virginia. Nancy Thomas born 1778; married Jacob Reed on April 17, 1800 in Bedford County, Virginia."
